UW Benefits Early Enrollment: Benefits Enrollment Starts Today

This message is for SOM faculty with CUMG membership who are transitioning to UW split pay who have received a PEBB eligibility notice stating they are eligible to participate in UW benefits early enrollment. If you are not eligible to participate in early enrollment, please disregard this message and look for further information on January 1, 2021.

Enrollment for 2021 UW health and retirement benefits begins TODAY, November 2, 2020!
Starting today, employees who are eligible to participate in early enrollment can log in to Workday, the system used to enroll in UW benefits, to begin making benefits elections. You can make elections at any time during the early enrollment period that runs from Nov. 2–25.

Log in to Workday using this link:

https://wd5-impl.workday.com/wday/authgwy/uw3/login.htmlld

Remember that you will need to use two-factor authentication (2FA) to log in. Note that this Workday link is only for employees who are enrolling in benefits because of the transition, and it is not the standard UW Workday link.

When you complete the enrollment process, confirm the benefits you have enrolled in by printing the “View My UW Benefits Elections” report.

Are you ready for early enrollment?

There are a couple of things you need to review and take action on prior to enrollment:

- Have you attended a UW benefits orientation presentation or viewed the pre-recorded online modules?
- Have you gathered any required dependent verification documentation (see the UW dependent verification page) and scanned them in preparation for use during the Workday enrollment process?
Support Guides and Additional Information

1. Benefits Enrollment 101: How to prepare for enrollment – This document covers the first steps to follow to enroll in UW benefits using Workday.

2. Health Enrollment 201: A guide to enrolling in benefits in Workday – This document will identify each decision point in the health benefits enrollment process and provide tools to help you make those decisions.
